

Numeracy Report

Staff are using numeracy in lessons and we have just completed a week where staff were asked to incorporate handling data into their lessons, showing pupils how it can be used across the curriculum. The staff developed a variety of activities which have enhanced their teaching and topics and developed the pupils' skills and knowledge which have been recorded in their books.

Many pupils have started to develop an understanding of how numeracy can be used and that they are using it confidently in all subjects. This was seen when they attended the maths lessons and stated that they had already completed maths activities in other subjects and did not need to do any more maths.
